Civic Music To Present Singer Here Soon

FRANK EDWINN

Frank Edwinn, brilliant young American basso who will be heard in recital here on Feb. 18, 1950 at Yoe High School Auditorium at 8 p. m. has the kind of personality, combined with rare vocal artistry, that the people who plan local Civic Concert series always hope for—and seldom get. The ability to live up to the high critical praise of such leading reviewers as Noel Straus of the New York Times is one thing; the ability to make an audience go all-out for the artist as a person is another. Edwinn does both. Said the Times critic of Edwinn's recent Town Hall, New York, recital: "His work was backed by keen intelligence, inborn musicianship and marked sensitivity With a handsome stage presence, in addition to his artistic assets, he aroused his large audience to an easily understandable warmth of enthusiasm." The critic for Washington (D. C.) Evening Star recently echoed with "the young basso gripped his audience." That, in a nutshell, is Frank Edwinn.

For a top-flight basso renowned both here and abroad not only for his extraordinary voice but for his scholarly researches in music literature, Edwinn is a very human fellow and possesses a fine sense of humor.

In advising young would-be singers, Edwin, whose ability to interpret as well as to sing is emphasized by the critics, stresses early training in literature. He believes that his childhood itnerest in poetry taught him the imporance of words, of their meanings and colors and that for a singer the meaning of the words he is singing is all-important. He thinks American composers are writing much fine music but deplores the "overly European" schooling that has left many of them incapable of properly handling America's rich treasure of folk music. He believes that public taste in America is continually improving, as evidenced by the growth of local opera groups and orchestra and recital series in the small, as well as the larger, towns.

FEBRUARY, 1950 NAMED TEXAS HEART MONTH

This February, thousands of men and women throughout the nation are making the 1950 Heart Campaign their concern. These volunteers in the fight against heart disease will receive generous support from the public, whose interests they serve. Heart disease is not their concern alone. It is the concern of every American.

Today, in Cameron plastic hearts will be placed in business houses throughout the town by members of the American Legion. The campaign has a goal of $6,000,000 to fight heart disease through research, education and community service. Open your heart and give to the 1950 Heart Campaign.

Folowing is an official memorandum by Governor Allan Shivers:

Heart disease, in its many forms, constitutes our State's most important medical and public health problem in that it affects more persons than any other disease, leads all others as a cause of death, is responsible for a great number of days lost from work and is a severe drain on our business, industry and State economy.

During the month of February, the Texas Heart Association is sponsoring a campaign for the purpose of focusing public attention on the medical, social and economic aspects of this primary health problem, and of reminding the populace that solution of the problem depends upon the fullest cooperation of the people, science, government, health and social agencies.

Therefore, I, as Governor of Texas do hereby designate the month of February, 1950, as "Texas Hearth Month", to be set aside for the obervance of the 1950 Texas Heart Campaign. I further urge schools, churches, scientific bodies, civic associations, business establishemnts, and other organizations and the people of the State of Texas generaly, to support this Campaign with appropriate activities and generous contributions.

INDUSTRIES FAVOR TAXES

MAYOR GRIFFITH FAILS IN RE-ELECTION HERE

A. N. Green, former member of the House of Representative, won the Democratic nomination for Mayor in the primary held on Tuesday.

Mr. Green defeated Mayor Roy Griffith by eleven votes. Mr. Griffith was serving his first term and was denied re-election to a second term.

Mr. Green is not the first candidate to win on the usual temperament of Cameron voters. He took the toilet tax and made an issue of it and based upon first impressions of the election it appeared that this alone was not responsible for his victory. Ever since 1945 when the planning board outlined a program and showed where to get the money without increasing taxes the people generally appear to have expected their City Government to do something.

Mr. Green, of course cannot hope to get co-operation from the Council on reducing the toilet tax because that Council issued a statement backing Mayor Griffith's stand on the $9.00 tax.

If the tax is reduced to its former level and with substantially half of the revenue already pledged to the Federal government for money borrowed only a little over $2000 would remain available for maintaining the sanitary system .

This was never explained to the people and they must either pay an increased sewer tax or take the money from the already depleted general fund.

There is a way to reduce the sewer tax. It should have not been increased $6.00. Instead the law requiring sewer connections should have been enforced. In this way revenue can be doubled and no body will pay an increase, provided the city will utilize the added income for extensions.

The people have not been told the true facts. The State of Texas has condemned the present disposal facilities and the city must construct a new plant at a new location that will cost at least $100,000.00.

Where will Mr. Green get the money? He must either get it from revenue bearing bonds based on the income of the sewer system or levy an outright tax on people.

Ladies and gentlemen, men who seek to lead you in municipal affairs either do not know what they are doing or for political reasons will not give you the facts.

Mr. Griffith evidently was a victim of his own conservative outlook on existing deep and vital needs of our city.

MCGOLDRICK LEADS IN CITY MARSHAL RACE

Jim McGoldrick, running for re-election, lead a three candidate field in the City Primary here Tuesday in the race for the nomination for City Marshal.

Joe Richter was second high and trailed McGoldrick by only three votes while Marshall Terry, member of the police polled 199 votes. The vote; McGoldrick 544, Richter 541, and Terry 199.

Whether a run-off Primary could be legally held would depend on whether the Eexecutive Committee in calling the election passed a resolution providing for a majority nomination.

The published order for the election does not specify a run-off.

In order to legally provide for such an election it was necessary that the committee formerly convene prior to the first primary and so order.

If a run-off primary is held it would occur in the Marshall's race the only contest with more than two candidates and probably would be held sometime in March.

The general election for the City is held on the first Tuesday in April.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Graham of Thorndale were visitors here Monday.

CAMERON YOEMEN ARE DISTRICT CHAMPIONS

Both the "A" and "B" teams found Rosebud's defense to their likeing Tuesday night and defeated the Black Panthers two games in their own gym.

James Jenkins led the "B" team to a 39-5 Victory, scoring 14 points, while the Yoelets tight defense did not allow a single field goal. The reserve Panthers scored only 5 free pitches.

The Yoemen won their ninth straight game 45-15, emerging district champions for the third year in a row. Alton Fuchs with 23 and Frank Malone with nine points led the scoring. After securing a 30 point lead the starters retired to the bench and much of the last half was played by reserves.

Friday night the Yoemen wind up district play at Taylor. This game has no bearing on the district race, but Cameron will be out to keep their undefeated record intact.

WACO MAN INJURED IN CAR ACCCIDENT

Smith Dosher of Waco was treated for minor injuries here around noon Thursday when his car struck the right hand banister of the bridge this side of McLerran hill on highway 36.

Dosher said upon reaching the narrow bridge he attempted to apply his brakes to keep from meeting an approaching automobile when his car skidded on wet pavement, and hit the bridge head on. He was rushed to Cameron for minor injuries and later released.

Highway Patrolman, Jack Higginbotham investigated the accident and said the automobile was badly damaged.

Milam County Lions Clubs To Head X-Ray Drive

Charles Hicks, chairman of the Milam tuberculosis survey to be held in March, has announced that the Lions clubs in Rockdale and Thorndale will serve as regional chairmen of the program in those cities and L. G. Smith, manager of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce, will be chairman in Cameron.

The Milam county health unit, under the direction of Dr. E. S. Freeman, is cooperating with the survey Places where the x-ray unit will be stationed for the free public service will be announced later.

A. N. Green Wins

A. N. Green was nominated Mayor in the Primary held here Tuesday, defeating incumbent Roy Griffith by eleven votes. The vote was: Mr. Green 640 and for Mr. Griffith 629.

3 INDUSTRY GROUPS ACCEPT TAX RAISES

Legislators in Austin found a willing group Monday to help pay costs of improving and running the state's mental hospital system.

They were the oil, gas and sulphur producers and liquor dealers.

An oil and gas industry spokesman led a parade of businessmen before a House committee in agreeing to go along with an administration-backed plan to raise the omnibus tax. Oil, gas, sulphur and liquor are among the twenty items taxed in it.

Pending before the committee is a bill to increase the taxes by 15 per cent. But calculations were made Monday on a 10-per-cent increase if the Legislature will raise the cigarette tax a penny a pack.

Spokesmen for the industries, of course, hoped the tax raise would be as little as necessary.

R. B. Anderson of Vernon gave the first pledge of willingness to take a tax raise. He is president of the Texas Mid-Continental Oil & Gas Association and also chairman of the new State Board of Education.

"The petroleum industry will not be an unwilling contributor to aid people who can not speak for themselves," Anderson told the revenue and taxation committee.

He di[illegible] amount he thought the tax ought to be increased. Instead, he said, "the industry leaves the judgement of the Legislature the contribution required from us."

His industry recognizes the hospital problem must be solved, Anderson said.

"If it is approached with equity, consideration and intellectual integrity," he said, "and you do the job only that is necessary, all of the people will applaud the Legislature."

Right behind Anderson ,spokesmen for three sulphur companies had about the same to say. But they pleaded for an increase of not over 10 per cent.

"The sulphur industry at this time is ready to assume its fair and equitable proportion of the costs," said Harry C. Webb of Houston, speaking for the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company.

Spokesmen for other sulphur companies pointed out, however, that sulphur already is taxed at a higher percentage of its value than oil. For instance, they said, a 10 per cent increase would raise the sulphur tax 13c on $18 of products, but only 7c on the same value for oil.

Emmett Morse of the Texas Wholesale Liquor Dealers Association said that group was not opposing any tax. But he reminded the Legislators that a fifth of whiskey costing $4.54 includes $2.08 in taxes.

ONE CAR STOLEN AND ANOTHER PILFERED

A 1950 black four door Ford automobile belonging to Dr. T. L. Denson was stolen sometime Monday night while parked at the side of the Denson residence at East 11th street.

Dr. Denson said he parked his car at his residence Monday afternoon and did not know what time the automobile was stolen.

Officials were working early today for traces of the missing car, and a broadcast will be made over the radio by Highway Patrolman, Jack Higginbotham.

The 1948 Nash belonging to Dr. J. L. Walker parked in his driveway, at 1105 Jackson had been entered and searched and was pushed from the drive into the street. Apparently items in the car were undisturbed, it was said.

Leonard and Jack Richardson of Memphis, Tenn., spent several days in Cameron where they visited their aunt, Mrs. Velma Quillin and their cousin, Mrs. Ada Pratt.

RECORD $15,400 PAID FOR CHAMPION STEER

An all-time American record was claimed by Houston Fat Stock Show officials as oilman Glenn McCarthy paid $15,400 for the show's grand champion steer, an 880-pound Hereford.

Show officials said the price is the highest bid ever made by an individual at a beef show auction sale. A syndicate of three men paid $40,000 for a champion steer at Kansas City three years ago.

McCarthy purchased the grand champion from Bobby Zane Egger, 14-year-old 4-H Clubber from Star, Mills County.

Flash previously had won grand champion banners at stock shows at Goldthwaite and Brownwood.

A Houston show record price of $6,400 also was paid for Dorothea Pride, another Hereford that carried off reserve champion honors. The money went to another 14-year-old 4-H boy, Donald Hewitt, Big Spring.

Purchasing the reserve champion were Bill McCarthy, Glenn's brother, and Howard Lee, a brother-in-law of the oilman.

Hewitt is in a Big Spring hospital with pneumonia. His prize steer was brought to Houston by a close friend, Perry Walker, also of Big Spring.

Egger also received a $1,000 added grand champion prize from Fort Worth's Bewley Mills.

The grand champion of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show sold for $6,000 and will end up on the dinner table at Lena Pope Orphans Home in Fort Worth.

The sleek 1,085-pound Hereford shown by Arthur Timm of Tama, Iowa, was purchased by the Amon G. Carter Foundation, a philanthropic organization set up by Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Two-Weeks Truce To Head Off Phone Strike Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—The Government will urge the American Communications Workers (CIO) to agree to a two-weeks truce to head off the nationwide telephone strike set to start Wednesday morning, a high Federal official said today.

He said Federal Meditation Director Cyrus S. Ching, who is directing Government efforts to prevent the walkout, may make a formal proposal to Union President Joseph A. Beirne tomorrow.

Union officials refused to say what their answer would be until they have examined the terms, but it was believed they would agree. That automatically would postpone the strike ,set for 6 a. m. Wednesday on a time zone basis.

Ching was in New York for private talks with representatives of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., parent company of the various Bell Telephone subsidiaries involved in the kage contract dispute. They have rejected union demands for "substantially" higher pay, a shorter work week, and other contract improvements.

Beirne, who has accused the companies of bargaining in bad faith, said Saturday a strike seems "inevitable".

DEFENSE WILL SHUT DOWN 18 HOSPITALS

Secretary of Defense Johnson today ordered 18 military hospitals in the U. S. closed or put to other use. He estimated the move will save $25,000,000 a year.

His announcement said the order will be carried out over a period of five months so as not to interfere with medical care of patients.

Johnson said some of the hospitals to be closed can be used for Veterans Administration patients.

Therefore, he said, he has authorized Dr. Richard L. Meiling, director of Defense Department medical service, "to discuss the entire problem of hospitalization of VA patients in military hospitals with the Veterans Administration and the Bureau of the Budget."

Johnson said his move today is the first in a study of the total medical service problem within his department.

The hospitals affected by Johnson's order include:

Army—

Beaumont General Hospital, Fort Bliss, El Paso, Taxas, to be reduced initially to an allocation of 700 beds, later to be cut to 500.

Navy—

Corpus Christi, Texas, Naval Hospital, to be reduced to an operating allocation of 100 beds.

Air Force—

Lackland Air Force Hospital, San Antonio, Texas, to be reduced to dispensary status.

Johnson said that, wherever a change is made under today's order, there are facilities for the medical care of military personnel and their dependents. This care will be provided, he said, by joint and more effectiveness of facilities remaining in these areas.

SUBSTITUTE FUND PLANS DEFEATED

Gov. Allan Shivers won his first test of leadership in the Legislature Thursday.

It came after he underwent harsh personal criticism. Angry expressions marked the end of the Governor's political honeymoon.

Shivers won out on two votes, one in the Senate and one in the house. Both can be interpreted as tests of leadership. The votes came when enemies of his special tax plans to finance state mental hospitals tried to substitute other means of raising the money.

Governor Shivers, dealing with the first Legislature since becoming chief executive, was in control—for the time being. But the division in the House was so close that the Governor's supporters must prepare for a hard fight.

House members voted 66 to 59 against a move by the so-called economy bloc. These members want to see if they can't call back the appropriation bills of last year's regular session, cut some money out here and there, and perhaps salvage enough cash to make new taxes to operate mental hospitals unnecessary.

Shivers had strong support in the Senate. There the vote was 22 to 3.

Political lightning flashed through the House in an hour and 24-minute meeting Thursday—third day of the special session.

Rep. J. M. Heflin of Houston accused the Governor of playing politics; using the session to further his campaign for Governor. But it was evident that legislators were thinking of politics themselves. They don't want to go back home and run for office next summer after having voted more taxes.

$74,000,000 GIVEN TO TEXAS FSA FUNDS

Texas received almost $74,000,000 in federal grants last year to help finance its public welfare services, the Federal Security Agency reported Wednesday.

This was the third largest amount granted to any state during the year ended June 30, 1949. Only California and New York received more federal help in the fields of health, education and social security.

The Federal Security Agency was organized in 1939 to bring under one roof the work of the Public Health Service, Office of Education and Social Security Administration. Since that time, the Food and Drug Administration, the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation and the Children's Bureau have been added.

Total national grants to the states last year to help with these services amounted to $1,190,491,962, the report showed. Many of these grants required matching funds from state and local sources.

Programs of the Social Security Administration accounted for the largest part of the Texas grant last year, $68,639,823. Most of this went to the old age assistance program, $55,067,369 of it.

The report charged that the exclusion of certain wage groups, such as farmers, from the social security insurance system, "laid a particularly heavy burden on the public assistance programs of the predominantly rural states—the very states which have the fewest resources to cope with the problem."

The Federal Government gave Texas almost $3,000,000 last year for aid in programs sponsored by the Public Health Service.

Texas was granted $541,900 for general health assistance, $166,530 for tuberculosis control, $106,372 for mental health activities, and $92,021 for cancer control work.

Grants totaling $2,355,993 were made for educational programs.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

See where a bank in Denver is putting in left-handed checkbooks. They figure their southpaw depositors deserve just as much consideration as the right handers.

Time was when it was believed that left-handed people had no right to exist at all. If a youngster showed signs of using his left hand, his parents were supposed to break him of the habit—to force him to use his right.

But today most doctors will tell you that changing a child's natural left-handed tendency usually causes more harm than good. Stammering and other nervous disorders often get their start that way with children.

From where I sit, if a man wants to use his left hand—that's his business. It's not such a good idea to make anyone do things our way, just because we think it's right. Personally, I think a mellow glass of beer is the finest beverage on earth. If you happen to prefer a Coke—why, go to it! Only leave me the same freedom of choice, won't you?

Vet Bill Gets Go-Slow Sign

House leaders put a go slow sign in the path of the first big veterans benefit bill of the 1950 session of Congress.

The bill, estimated to cost an eventual $454,175,000 and to benefit 188,000 World War II veterans, has been given clearance by the House Rules Committee. It previously was approved by the House Post Office and Civil Service Committees over opposition of the Budget Bureau, the President's financial spokesman.

But House leaders so far have declined to let it come to a test because of the money involved.

The bill affects employes of the postal service who served in the last war and started handling the mail after their military service. By crediting their war service toward their postal service, it would give them automatic promotions and pay raises. Their war service must have occured between Sept. 16, 1940, and June 30, 1946, and they must have entered the postal service prior to July 1 of this year.

Meningitis Kills Aggie Student

A Texas A. and M. College Freshman died of spinal meningitis and 20 other students have been placed under precautionary observation, the college announced.

Norbert James Lucas, 17, home on mid-semester vacation, died last night at a Marlin hospital. He became ill Sunday night and doctor's attributed his death to the dread disease.

A. and M. was notified Monday of the nature of the young engineering student's illness and Dr. J. E. Marsh, college physician, interviewed 20 students who lived in a barracks-type dormitory with Lucas.

Each was placed under observation and given sulfadiazine treatments. They were moved to other quarters and their dormitory and furnishings were fumigated.

Dr. Marsh said that all precautions were being taken and the college would "continue to do so until the last possible danger has passed."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Lucas was accompanied home last Friday by a classmate, who is under observation by a Marlin physician.

The physician said the classmate showed no symptoms of the disease tonight.

34,000 Persons Homeless From Ohio Floods

More than 34,000 persons were homeless in flood basins of the Ohio valley and Arkansas Friday, and a new flood threat arose on the lower Mississippi river.

The Ohio river and its tributaries began falling after driving more than 12,000 persons from their homes in Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

But U. S. engineers ordered a constant patrol along 483 miles of lower Mississippi.

Engineers said they were ready to open the Bonnet-Carre spillway 18 miles north of New Orleans if the Mississippi rose another 9.6 inches. It had reached 19.2 feet at New Orleans, where the danger mark is 20 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Grayson of Beeville spent the week end in Cameron visiting relatives and friends.

COUNTY SUPERVISOR REPORTS ON MEETING

Roy M. Wright Milam and Burleson County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, attended sessions this week of a state Farmers Home Administration cotton production and insect control committee in Dallas. "Early insect control was the most effective practice, the farmers who planted early enough and poisoned properly and early got excellent results. One and one-half bale to the acre or more in many instances," Wright said.

"Insect control alone won't get the job done," declared Wright, "There are other things that need to be done —cover crop on land to be planted, fertilizer at planting, planting best seed early, pre-square poisioning, and having good land that has been properly prepared."

At the Dallas meeting three things were pointed up—cover crops, early planting, and pre-square poisoning—as being the most important in increasing production.

Henry R. Tomasek of Route 1, Cameron made one of the best gains as a result of proper insect control. Mr. Tomasek increased his yield by 364 pounds of seed cotton per acre as a result of pre-square application of 20 per cent Toxephene dust. Tomasek applied the dust at 7 day intervals using 8-10 pounds per application and used three applications. Tomasek figured that his 5 acres of properly dusted cotton made him $39.00 more per acre than that which was not dusted. Others who made good yields as a result of dusting are: Willie Moraw of Route 4, Cameron; Hugo Miller of Route 1, Burlington; Will Stoebner of Route 1, Burlington; and Walter Senkel of Route 2, Cameron.

Placing stress on the improvement of farm and home management practices of farmers associated with Farmers Home Administration, the cotton production and insect control committee was organized by State Director L. J. Cappleman of the agency. Mr. Wright was named on the committee. Its activities will be pointed toward increasing the yield of cotton by following better practices, such as pre-square poisoning, the use of commercial fertilizer, and planting cotton following legumes. It is expected that the successful results already obtained by farmer-borrowers who have followed these improved methods will draw other families into the program and encourage them to adopt better methods, such as early season insect control measures and planting cover crops to rebuild worn-out soil, Many of these farmers whose methods have proven successful will teach the practices to their neighbors. Similar efforts are being put forth throughout the State, as the cotton production and insect control committee is statewide in scope.

JOHNSON SAYS U. S. MUST BE PREPARED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson bluntly branded Russia tonight as the only possible worldwide aggressor and said the United States should be prepared "to lick hell out of her" if necessary.

He avoided shadow-boxing on the subject of possible Soviet aggression, and issued what is probably the most outspoken warning ever given Moscow by a member of the Cabinet.

"There is but one nation in the world tonight that would start a war that would engulf he world and bring the United States into war," Johnson told a University of Virginia alumni gathering.

"We want a military establishment sufficient to deter that aggressor and sufficient to lick hell out of her if she doesn't stay deterred."

He said this country's defenses are stronger now than at any time since 1945, and are getting tougher every day.

The "big shooting is over" in the unification row, he added, and the Army, Navy and Air Forces are working together from the top level down.

"I want Joe Stalin to know that if he starts something at four o'clock in the morning, the fighting power and strength of America will be on the job at five o'clock in the morning," he asserted.

"That couldn't have been true at Pearl Harbor—there wasn't any unification at Pearl Harbor, or Pearl Harbor couldn't have been."

He said American war plans have been drawn up with the idea that there is "but one potential enemy of the United States." He named Russia as that threat, and said he wasn't sure peace "would last 24 hours" if the Soviets thought this country was unprepared.

Local Linemen To Ice Stricken Area

Henry Siebman, manager Texas Power & Light Company said today that the local company had been asked to send two men into the ice stricken area and B. A. Slavik and Steve Hrozek had left immediately.

Mr. Slavik and Hr. Hrozek were sent to McKinney to aid in restoring power.

The tremendous ice storm isolated a vast portion of the state, ripped down power lines and spread human suffering. Damage was soaring steadily.

A glittering mantle of ice stretched from Wichita Falls and Abilene on West to Dallas and Fort Worth on the south and Paris and Greenville on the east. At least 54 cities were isolated from telephone and power communications.

It is believed that the ice storm might lessen slightly today.

Mrs. W. A. Rosenburg is among the patients ill and in Newton Memorial Hospital.

FBI CHIEF SHOCKS THE SOLONS WITH ACCOUNT

Senators quoted FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover as saying evidence shows that a top British scientist, under arrest in London, passed hydrogen bomb data as well as vital A-bomb secrets to Moscow.

Hoover was further quoted as saying that Dr. Klaus Fuchs, 38, had confessed to spying activities. One Senator said, however, that the scientist may be tried by British courts on a relatively minor charge in order to avoid airing some aspects of the case which might touch on still-retained atomic secrets.

Hoover testified for three hours behind closed doors at a meeting of a Senate Appropriations Committee.

Hoover told Senators that Fuchs had made a "partial confession," but the FBI chief did not specify whether it was written or oral.

Committee members said Hoover told them the London scientist, German-born Fuchs, came into possession of some information about the H-bomb which President Truman has ordered American scientists to develop.

Fuchs, who worked on wartime atomic projects in the United States for three years, was seized by Scotland Yard agents—acting on a tip from the FBI—and jailed today on charges of violating the British official secrets act.

In his capacity as chief of the theoretical division at the nation's No. 1 laboratory, Fuchs knew how the atom bomb was made, Fuchs worked also on the A-bomb project in the United States from 1943 until June 1946.

FBI officials said Fuchs held the same place in Britain's atomic set-up as J. Robert Oppenhemer held in the United States during the war-tme atomic program. Oppenheimer, master of research theory, headed the Los Alamos, N. M., laboratory where the first A-bomb was put together and tested. Fuchs had access to what the Atomic Energy Committee described as "a wide area of the most vital weapons information" while he was in the United States.

TEXANS PAY MORE TAXES

Federal Revenue collections in Texas totaled $110,375,408 in December a 21 per cent increase over a year ago.

The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported a 32 per cent increase in the South Texas District, and a 5 per cent gain in the North Texas District.

MINE BOSSES BREAK OFF LEWIS TALKS

Northern-Western operators Thursday broke off contract talks with John L. Lewis and accepted President Truman's plan for a fact-finding board to end the coal strike.

This group comprises about three fifths of the nation's soft coal tonnage. Southern producers and U. S. Steel's "captive" mine interests are expected to notify the White House later of agreement to the peace plan.

After a two and one-half hour meeting with his policy committee, Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association, told reporters the South's decision would be deferred.

A glowering Lewis immediately accused the operators of inviting the government to "crush" the mine workers and "reduce them to a condition of servility" but he did not say what his answer to Truman will be.

Tune In HENRY J. TAYLOR,

Here's where Thrift and Glamor meet

Recognize this sprightly traveler?

Yes, it's the Buick SPECIAL 6-passenger Sedanet that has caught the public fancy not only on its sleek lines, but on its easily-reachable price.

But notice anything new on it?

That's right — gleaming trim and the name plate "SPECIAL" brightening up the fenders. Brightwork around the windshield and windows, too. And when you swing the door open you'll see still other touches of added luxury—side armrests, front and rear, a robe rail, an extra ash tray.

It's all still mighty thrifty, because this strapping straight-eight sells for less than many sixes.

Frugal in other ways too — gas mileage, for instance, is surprising so many people they are writing us in delight about it.

But here we've added extra glamor. Stepped up, at small step-up in price, the luxury look and surroundings of cars that would normally be much higher.

Why not drop in and see for yourself, both how these added touches dress up this SPECIAL and how close it is in price to cars of much less room, riding comfort, standing and performance.

Your dealer will be glad to see you — glad to show you how this traveler handles—glad to sign you up for prompt delivery.

MH-B Observes Charter Day

Traditions of more than a century's standing were dusted off Saturday by more than 250 Mary Hardin-Baylor College alumnae and visitors and 73 Seniors at the annual Charter Day celebration.

Charter Day marks the 105th anniversary of the signing of the charter which created Mary Hardin-Baylor College. Anson Jones last President of the Texas Republic signed the document Feb. 1, 1845, but the anniverary is celebrated annually on the week end nearest that date.

Miss Mary Hamilton, graduate of 1947, discussed three things she would do if she were in another's shoes. Miss Hamilton, instructor in speech-radio-theatre at Temple University, Philadelphia, was principal speaker at the chapel services which opened Charter Day festivities.

Mrs. Mary Alice Cowley Marshall of Temple gave the invocation at the chapel service and Mrs. Virginia Frazier Parry of Austin read the scripture.

Selected by the Class of 1950, Miss Helen Holmes, president of Student Government Association on the campus, discussed the highlights in the history of the Alumnae Association. Miss Elizabeth Alexander, vice president of the Alumnae Association, gave the benediction.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to take this means of expressing our very deep appreciation to all our neighbors and friends for the many kindnesses shown us during the long illness and at the death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Floyd Phipps. Words fail us when we think of you who did so much for us during the sorrow which has come to us. Your loving kindness and friendship will always be held in our hearts with reverence. May God bless you all is our prayer.

Texas Tops States In Bids For Rural Telephone Loans

Texas tops the list in the number of applications for rural telephone loans, the Rural Electrification Administration reported Friday.

To date, sixteen Texas groups have filed fromal requests for loans to finance the construction of expansion of telephone lines in rural areas.

REA has been accepting formal applications since the first of the year. Since that time, 167 requests for loans have been received from thirty-six states.

Texas also is far in the lead in the number of inquiries received from prospective borrowers, REA said. In the three months since the new law went into effect, 114 requests for information have been received from almost all parts of the state. This does not include inquiries from individuals or firms other than telephone companies, officials explained.

Only last week, Texas ranked second in phone applications. At that time, only twelve requests for REA loans had been filed, compared with fourteen from Kansas. But Thursday the score stood at sixteen for Texas, fourteen for Kansas and eleven for Alabama.

Principal loan requirements are that the money be used to provide adequate telephone service to the widest practicable number of rural subscribers, and that the loans be self-liquidating within the 35-year period allowed.

RESUMPTION OF SPECIAL FARM PROGRAM BEGINS

Local P. M. A. Committeemen will resume work on the special farm program that was suspended last summer. Milam County is one of the four counties in Texas elected for this special work. The purpose of the program is to have an experienced committeeman visit each farm to make a physical inventory of all soil building practice needs.

This program is of vital importance to each and every Milam County farmer because the inventory of needs for each farm will not only determine the amount of assistance each farm will get, but also the amount the County will receive in future years. Therefore it can easily be understood that a good thorough survey must be made on each farm.

Work will be resumed first in the Buckholts and Clarkson communities. Immeriately therfore work will begin in Maysfield, Milano, Rockdale, Thorndale, and Sharp communities. Producers will receive notice several days prior to the time a committeeman will visit his farm. Every farmer is urged to co-operate with his local committeeman when he visits his farm.

Edward Leroy Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen H. Davis of Rogers is among the patients ill and in St. Edwards Hospital.

Mrs. Carl Holley of Route 3, Cameron is a medical patient at St. Edward Hospital.

Mrs. O. R. Rushing Census Clerk, Has Started Work

Mrs. Oby R. Rushing, began her duties Monday as administrative clerk of the district census office for McLennan and five other Central Texas counties, it was announced yesterday by W. H. Skelton, district census supervisor.

Mrs. Rushing completed Friday a week's special training at Dallas.

More than 500 applications for enumerator jobs in the coming decennial census in McLennan, Bell, Falls, Bosque, Milam and Coryell counties have been received to date, Skelton said. More applications are "coming in every day," he added.

Skelton announced that examinations for enumerator job applicants probably will be given "the latter part of this month." He said the exams will be conducted in the county of the applicants' residence, and indicated that he and his assistant, Edward Lee Hay, will work out the schedule of examinations soon. There will be 300 or more enumerator posts to be filled, he said.

The supervisor praised co-operation received from Texas Employment Commission offices in Waco and Temple in receiving enumerator applications. Forms may be obtained at those two offices in addition to the district census headquarters at 417 Franklin Avenue, Waco.

Skelton will address the Rotary Club at Cameron Wednesday noon. He repeated his invitation of a week ago to all civic groups, women's clubs and farm organizations to hear from him or from Hay a discussion of the methods and purposes of the forthcoming census.

Enumerators in urban communities will receive three days training prior to beginning their work, Skelton said. Rural enumerators are to have four days training. The latter must furnish their own automobiles, he said.

The census will include a count of population for the six counties comprising the 11th Congressional District and will also gather housing, agriculture, irrigation and drainage data.

Milam County Students In Training Program

Thirty-three students from Milam County are among the more than 2,000 students at Southwest Texas State Teachers College, most of whom will enter the nation's most critical occupation—that of teaching in the public schools.

This expanded teacher-training program is a part of the efforts of the College in San Marcos to help overcome the war-born scarcity of teachers. A country-wide survey has shown that the educational opportunities of one and one-half million children are being impaired by the critical shortage of teachers.

On the basis of figures recently compiled, 88 percent of the students who will graduate from Southwest Texas State Teachers College will teach in the public schools in Texas.

Those students from Milam County are Roy Garrett, Joe Hawkins, Milton Jistel, Richard Jones, Lawrence Michalka, Edmund Schmidt, William Sweet, and Billy Yager, all of Cameron; Paul Burke of Davilla; Christine Edmonds, Nolan Kirk and Hubert Shafer of Gause; Marion Allen Johnson and Carol Wise, of Milano; Billy Earle Dessens, Marvin Dixon, Lila Dockall, Joe Harris, Douglas Holley, John Holley, Mrs. Barney McCoy, Loy W. Nelson, Peggy Salisbury, Sam Tuma, and Roy Williams, all of Rockdale.

Others are Billie B. Clark of San Sabine, Billie Jean McCoy of Tanglewood; and Kathryn Case, Larry Edmondson, Dorothy Hendricks, Juanita Hendricks, Marie Roepke, and Henry Yeager, all of Thorndale.

PRIMITIVE CONDITIONS FOUND NEAR HEARNE

The state orphanage at Corsicana got six new charges, the state mental hospital at Austin got another patient and the Franklin jail an inmate in a strange story that finally unfolded here Monday.

And before it was all over, six ragged children who had never had haircuts, got a long overdue taste of soap and water in the jury room of the Eighty-fifth District Court at Franklin.

The man who ended up in jail was the 83 year old father of the six children, and the mother, 33, was sent to the insane asylum. (The mother also received the soap and water treatment before she was dispatched to Austin.)

The father was in Hearne Saturday and went into a local drug store and asked for a pound can of Ungentine. Upon being questioned as to what the medicine was for, he informed the druggist, Odis Hoyt, that it was to be used to treat burns on one of his children which the child had received two weeks prior.

Upon leaving the drug store the man went to the local bus station to catch a bus to his "home" between Hearne and Franklin. He was apprehended and placed under arrest by Sheriff Bob Reeves and Constable Lee Josey after they were notified he was in town by County Attorney Bill Palmos.

Officers and welfare workers then went to the barn-like home where the family lives and carried the six children and the mother to the Franklin court house. The children ranged in age from one to seven years.

After the arrest of the father a movement was started immediately to place the children in an orphan's home.

The children and mother were taken into custody by deputy sherriffs W. O. Baxter and Juanita Turner, assisted by County Attorney Bill Palmos and District Judge W. S. Barron.

It was the first time that the children had ever ridden in an automobile and it was necessary to use force to get the children into the car. Upon arriving at Franklin the children saw a train for the first time.

When they heard a radio it was hard for them to figure where the voice was coming from when they could not see a person.

The courtroom was filled with sympathetic people at the time of the hearing. Everyone seemed to be anxious to try to do something for the benefit of the family.

The Democrat expects to publish pictures of the children in next week's issue. These ipctures, which were taken one hour apart (the "before" and "after" scenes) show what soap and water, a few minutes scrubbing and clean clothes can do.

Two tubs were purchased and placed in the jury room of the court house and the children and mother were bathed by Deputy Sheriff Juanita Turner and welfare workers, Mrs. Eula Burton and Mrs. Sue Stark.

When the children reappeared in the courtroom dressed in new clothes that the court had bought for them they made quite a different picture from the ragged and dirty children they had been a few moments before.

The family had been under observance by the Hearne welfare workers and county officers for sometime. Prior attempts to aid and help the family have been warded off by the father, officers said.

The father is in county jail at Franklin awaiting a sanity hearing. —The Hearne Democrat.

J. W. (Billy) NEWTON

J. W. (Billy) Newton of Maysfield ,student at the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, will deliver his annual practice or "test" sermon in the Seminary chapel Tuesday morning, Feb. 14.

The exercise is in accordance with a policy of requiring each seminary student to deliver such a sermon each year before an audience of his fellow students and faculty members, in order to acquaint him with problems of sermon preparation and presentation.

Newton's sermon will be recorded on wire and later played back to him, for criticism, in private conference with his faculty supervisor.

Newton is a graduate of Yoe High School in Cameron and is married to the former Miss Doris Stidham of this city.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Newton of Maysfield.

Last summer he attended a special training course in counselling for the sick at Andover-Newton Theological Seminary in Boston, Mass. He also did summer preaching in Texas City, Luling, Gonzales, Hamilton, and Gatesville, Texas.

Newton is currently seeking the Bachelor of Divinity degree from Austin Seminary, where he is classified as a middler or second-year student.

Social Security Benefits Available

"There are dozens of persons in Brazos County who are receiving monthly Federal insurance benefits who have not themselves worked in employment covered by the law," stated James B. Marley, manager of the Austin Social Security field office.

"These persons include the retired worker's wife and young children and the deceased worker's window, children, or parents. The old-age and survivors insurance system is a family insurance program which, under certain conditions, pays benefits to these family members."

"The unfortunate thing right now though, is that there probably are a number of eligible survivors of deceased wage earners in Brozos County who have not filed for these payments, and, therefore, are not receiving them. Undoubtedly, the main reason for this is that the worker never told them to get in touch with a social security office in case he should die. Since an application must be filed within three months after the worker's death to prevent loss of any payments, some of these survivors may have already lost hundreds of dollars.

"The surest way that a wage earner can protect his social security investment and his family is to tell them to contact the nearest social security office in the event of his death."

"There is no truth more thoroughly established than that there exists an indissoluble union between virtue and happiness, between duty and advantage, between honesty and prosperity. We ought to be no less persuaded that the propitious smiles of Heaven can never be expected on a nation that disregards the eternal rules of right and order which Heaven itself ordained; and that the preservation of the sacred fire of liberty and the destiny of democratic government are as deeply, perhaps as finally, staked on the experiment entrusted to the American people." LAST OF CATTLE WARS: MURDER AT SEMINOLE

OLD GAINES HOTEL, SCENE OF SLAYING, LOOKS MUCH TODAY AS IT DID IN 1907

By EDWARD WELSH

Gaines Hotel, Seminole, Tex., erected in 1907, the scene of a double slaying in the Cattle Rustlers' War April 2, 1923.

On the night of April 2, 1923, 11 men, exchanging gossip, were seated in the small parlor-office of the Gaines Hotel at Seminole, Tex. Mostly the conversation concerned the forthcoming grand jury which was to convene the next day in Gaines County's new courthouse.

The group included Sheriff Frank Britton, now living in Lubbock; District Attorney Gordon B. McGuire; Dave Allison, Post City, and J. L. Roberson, Midland, the latter two special officers for the Texas Cattle Raisers Association, and N. R. Morgan, an elderly lawyer.

About 9 o'clock the front door flew open and two armed men stepped into the room. Before anyone could move the explosions of an automatic shotgun split the air. Allison and Roberson fell to the floor mortally wounded. Though both of the victims were armed neither had a chance to draw his gun.

Victims Were Marked

Lawyer Morgan flattened himself against the dusty pine floor and the other eight men, all unarmed, managed to escape through the dining room door and out the back of the hotel. Their haste was needless for one of the gunmen was Tom Ross, well-known local rancher and a crack shot with any kind of gun. He had marked his victims and had no intention of shooting any innocent parties.

With Ross was Milt Good, another area rancher. According to a story told later by Lawyer Morgan, Ross emptied his shotgun and handed it to Good. Ross then drew a six-shooter and emptied it into Roberson's lifeless body. The two gunmen then started for their car which was parked in front of the hotel.

Officer Roberson's wife was upstairs at the time of the shooting. Hearing the shots she ran down the narrow stairs to find her husband's body slumped in the corner. She snatched his pistol from its holster and fired two shots at the fleeing killers. One shot struck Ross and inflicted a minor wound.

Morgan reached up and grabbed the woman just as another shot rang out from the street. He pulled her to the floor just in time and a .38 calibre bullet imbedded itself in the wall of the stairway. The hole is there today and is pointed out by Manager T. N. Chambliss.

Hotel a Landmark

The Gaines Hotel was erected about 1907 and was the center of activity for cattlemen, good and bad, in those early days. Today, some 43 years later, the hotel looks much the same as it did in the more hectic days. A threadbare parlor, 11 bedrooms, a kitchen and a bath. It still does a thriving business with oilfield workers and a couple of permanent residents who do not give a second thought to the hotel's historic aspects.

Many oldtimers have keen memories of those early days. A. L. Duff, abstractor and lawyer, was county attorney at the time of the double slaying. He likes to recall the facts of the case and the events that led up to the shooting.

There had been a lot of bad blood between Ross and Roberson for several years, Duff related recently. Ross who had several sections of fine ranchland that was situated astride the Texas-New Mexico boundary, had sworn on several occasions that no Cattle Association man would ever set foot on his ranch and live to tell of it.

T. N. Chambliss, current manager of Gaines Hotel, points to bullet hole in stairway of pioneer cattlemen's hostelry. Two Cattle Raisers Assn. officers were slain by volley of shots fired in lobby. Hole was made by bullet fired from street by killers. It narrowly missed Mrs. J. L. Roberson, wife of one of slain men. (Photo by Edward Welsh).

One day while Ross was in Lovington, N. M., on business, Roberson visited the Ross ranch and is alleged to have found a large number of missing cattle. These cattle bore the brands of other ranchers who had entered complaints of rustling. Roberson prepared his evidence to present to the Gaines County grand jury which was to sit on April 3, 1923.

Other Evidence

According to Duff, the rustling evidence was not the only information that Roberson had unearthed. Rumors had it that Ross was a killer. No evidence had ever been strong enough to present to the courts for a conviction. Then, too, men were scared of Ross. He was quick tempered and several men had disappeared without any explanation.

The body of a Mexican cowhand had been found in a shallow grave on the Ross ranch. It was badly burned but was eventually identified through dental work. Roberson aided in this discovery.

"A lot of folks around here expected the Roberson killing," Duff said as he reminisced. "Some of us thought that Ross would come to the grand jury hearing and pull his gun there. Allison lost his life because he happened to be an association officer and in the company of Roberson."

An accurate account of the events of the fatal evening show that Ross and his partner, Good, returned to the Ross ranch after the shooting and telephoned the sheriff.

"We're out of gas," Ross said over the party line. "Come get us and we'll come in peacefully."

Just Doing Good Turn

A neighbor of Ross', Forrest Sherman, overheard the telephone conversation and volunteered to drive the two men to town. Sherman did not know of the shooting until after he had delivered Ross and Good to the courthouse. He was just doing a good turn for a fellow rancher, he thought.

Ross and Good were brought to Lubbock, where after a long drawn-out trial and appeals, the two men finally received sentence for the killing of Allison. Then they were taken to Abilene where they had to stand trial for the slaying of Rober-

Sudan, 'Camel' of Grass Family, Popular in Arid Areas Throughout Nation

By STAFF WRITER

Since its introduction into the United States in 1909, the use of Sudan grass for hay and summer pasturage has spread to every part of the country. It has proven most successful in the South and especially in the high dry areas of the Southwest.

So universal has been the acceptance of "sweet Sudan" there is every indication that seed will be in short supply this year.

Sudan grass grows in regions of small annual rainfall. It is the equal of the best varieties of sorghums when it comes to drought endurance. Sweet Sudan also produces a much higher yield than millet in the South.

The original seeds of Sudan came from Khartum, ancient capital of that African state from which the grass gets its name. While in many respects it is similar to Johnson grass, it does not have the heavy root stocks and coarseness. It takes less moisture from the soil and produces a maximum forage.

Another advantage of "Sweet Sudan" is that it is less likely to have dangerous amounts of prussic acid than the larger sorghums. Where growth is normal and not checked by frost, there is practically no donger of poisoning when the grass is pastured. There is no danger at all where it has been properly cured for Sudan hay.

Some of the highest yields of Sudan seed per acre are in Lubbock, Crosby, Hale, Floyd and Swisher counties in Texas. Production reaches as high as 600 pounds per acre in these areas.

A bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture warns farmers to be sure of their seed house when buying Sudan seed. Sudan is almost identical in appearance to Johnson grass seed. Reputable seed firms assure that the seeds have been grown under conditions that eliminate the possibility of contamination.

Sudan grass can be utilized for its primary purpose, hay; for soiling and silage; for pasture, and for seed production. The feeding value of Sudan hay is equal to millet, timothy, Johnson grass and other nonlegume roughage. This has been proved by chemical and feeding tests.

As a soiling crop Sudan grass will support a large number of animals where rainfall is adequate or where irrigation is employed.

As silage, Sudan is comparable to the larger sorghums. It is often made more palatable by the addition of cowpeas or soybeans.

As summer pasturage, Sudan grass has become very popular. It is superior in several ways to any other grass or legume in dry areas such as on the South Plains of Texas.

One test showed that Sudan grass furnished abundant pasturage for one cow per acre for 125 days. The dairy cows also produced an average of 3.8 pounds of milk more than cows fed on native grasses.

Hogs and sheep have also been tested on Sudan. The animals seem to relish the grass and have shown good pasture gains.

Because of the recognized value of Sudan grass as a supplementary pasture crop the USDA is spending considerable time and effort to improve its forage value and to make it more disease resistant. They are also gradually lowering the prussic acid content.

Additional information on the seed and grass can be obtained from State Experiment stations, county agents or direct from the USDA in Washington.

The National Institute of Mental Health doesn't give Texas' mental hospitals quite as bad as a rating as the recent "worst in the nation" tag of a United States Public Health Service survey team—but it's pretty bad. The Institute rates Texas no higher than 37th on its four completed studies, and as low as 45th of one of them.

Ceramics Industry Field Wide Open in Texas At This Time

The ceramics industry field is wide open in Texas at this time, F. K. Pence, University of Texas ceramics engineering professor, asserts.

At present, there are no table ware or electrical porcelain industries in the state, yet the raw materials, facilities, labor and market are apparent in the Southwest, he says.

While most engineering fields have more applicants than job opportunities, records in the Ceramics Engineering Department show the reverse is true in its field.

"Our graduates not only have jobs waiting for them now, but they have opportunities to work into management or part ownership of ceramics plants which usually are in the small, stable business class," Pence declares.

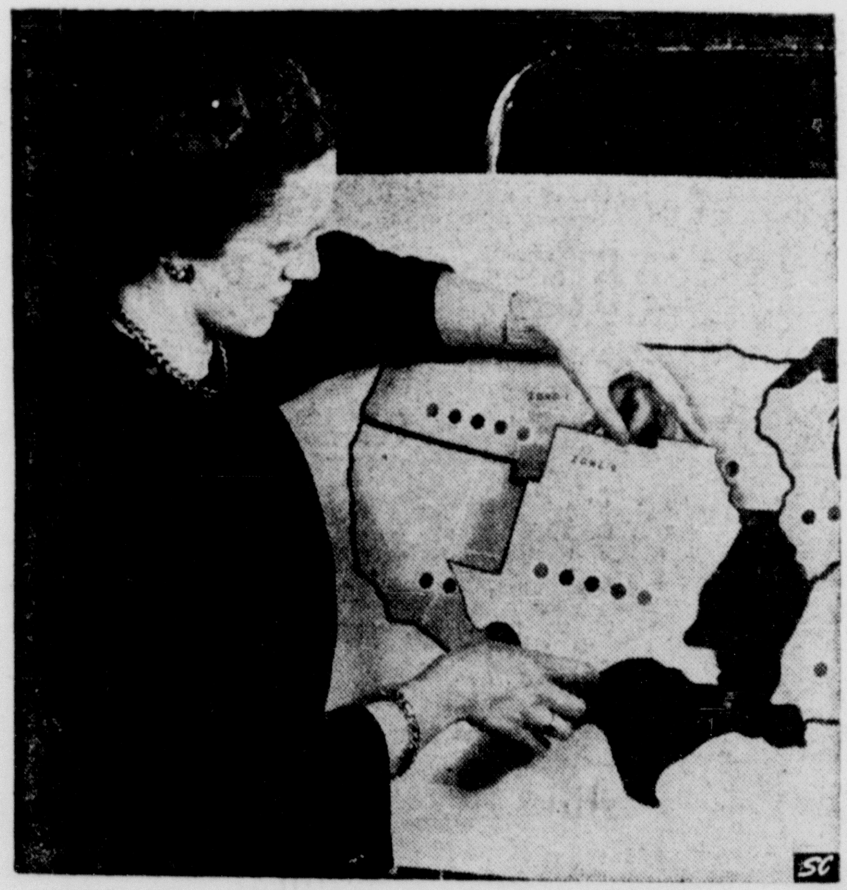
Shepperd received his award at a banquet in Peoria, Ill.

Sun-Tanned Area Likes Light Cars



There are as many definite color preferences among customers buying automobiles today as there are climatic variations in the United States. Authority for this is the General Motors styling section in Detroit, which periodically tests the "color pulse" of the nation through regional car preference color studies. For example, in the south and southwest (Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas), the present liking among car buyers is for the grey and sand-colored shades with the darker blacks and dark blues running second in choice. Greens are third with blues running fourth. The extent to which General Motors goes in attempting to determine what the buying public wants in car colors was dramatically illustrated in a series of exhibits at GM's "Mid-Century Motorama" in New York City.

President of Great Grain Mart Hero of Rags-to-Wealth Tale

Carl E. Bostrom, who literally "grew up" in the grain business, has been elected president of the Chicago Board of Trade, world's largest grain exchange. His new office climaxes a career that began when he took a job as a messenger boy with Lowell Hoit & Company, Chicago grain commission merchants. He progressed through all phases of the business until he became a director and vice president of the firm in 1949. He became a member of the Board of Trade in 1922 and has served as first vice president, and as a member and chairman of various committees. He also holds the important position of vice chairman of the National Grain Trade Council, an association of grain exchanges and grain dealers' organizations throughout the United States.

It is definitely known that President Truman is approving a $30 million Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan to the Oklahoma Turnpike Authority. This is a major step in the President's program for self-liquidating public works.

The President believes this method of financing public works might help solve any future regional unemployment.

The U. S. government's extensive grocery business—that is, its purchases and sales of farm commodities under the price support program—will result in a record net loss of $400 million this year.

By the end of the fiscal year, June 30, the government will have bought roughly $1,600,000,000 worth of farm products, and will have sold about $1,200,000,000 worth—for a loss of 24 cents on the dollar.

During the fiscal year which ended last June 30, the net loss was slightly more than $250 million.

Swastika Back

The swastika, seen everywhere in Germany in Hitler's day, appears to be making a comeback in that country. It is appearing on walls, on tops of buildings, in telephone booths, and even on some customs seals.

The swastika signs and Nazi slogans were washed off and removed from the walls when the war ended, but their space remained and left the same mark, even if it is less legible now.

It is explained that there is no money with which to permanently erase all traces of the swastika, or to buy new customs seals, but all these reminders of war-time Germany are in contrast to efforts being made to develop a Democratic spirit in western Deutschland, where U. S. Commissioner McClay is active.

Nations Fuss

Friendship between Argentina and Spain is menaced by trade relation developments which have reached a new low.

It is said that Madrid might break off economic ties in protest against the Buenos Aires interpretation of the once highly-touted commercial accords.

All sorts of recriminations figured in the last sessions in Buenos Aires between a special Spanish trade mission and the Argentines. At one point, the South Americans accused the Spaniards of having sold for dollars goods shipped from Argentina.

The primary Spanish complaint, it is said, is that Argentina simply is not shipping the goods promised.

Don't Toss Money Away Every time an egg is broken on a poultry farm, it's like throwing a nickel in the gutter, says John C. Taylor, extension poultry specialist at the College of Agriculture, Rutgers University. He sets forth seven ways to avoid needless waste of eggs:

Have plenty of nests and plenty of clean nesting material in them all of the time.

Collect eggs twice a day.

Handle eggs carefully in the egg room.

Use only good strong cases with new fillers and flats if possible.

Pack all eggs with the big end up.

Nail cases at each end, and not in the middle of the lid.

Taking eggs to market, pad the bottom of the truck with straw, hay or bagging to absorb shocks.

Book Review Genetics of the Fowl by F. D. Hutt, Ph.D., professor of animal genetics, New York State College of Agriculture, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., surveys our present knowledge of heredity and variation in the domestic fowl. The material in this book is useful as a text and reference book for students in poultry genetics. Sufficient explanation is also given so that the poultryman or hatcheryman who has not been exposed to a full-course in genetics need not feel lost in any chapter of the book. Published by McGraw-Hill Book Company, New York, Price $6.50.

Check Brooder Equipment It's wise to look over your brooder equipment before the chicks arrive. Check the thermostats on brooder stoves. Check all electrical connections, water fountains, feeders, etc. Such preparations will save many a headache later on.

Poultry Facts

The turkin is not a turkey-chicken cross. It is a special poultry variety properly known as Transylvania naked neck.

Egg yolk color is completely governed by the kind of feed eaten. Breed of chickens and color of eggshell have no effect upon it.

Roosts for layers are now a thing of the past on many successful poultry farms. Lowered cost of egg production is claimed for the "roostless" houses.

Diseases known to be transmitted through hatching eggs include pullorum, fowl typhoid, and the leukosis complex (commonly called range paralysis).

Hens laying eggs of intermediate size — 23 to 26 ounces per dozen — are usually the highest producers and make the most money for their owners.

Pullets reared on a good clover or sudan pasture will eat at least 10 per cent less feed than similar birds kept in confinement or reared on grass-free ranges.

Handle Hatching Eggs With Care

During the hatching season, many flock owners sell their eggs to hatcheries and realize considerably higher prices than the product market is offering for eggs. In addition to the usual pointers about producing good hatching eggs, such as having the right number of males, and being sure that the flock has a proper diet, there are several other factors that go toward producing good hatching eggs.

Assuming that eggs when laid by the hen are good hatching eggs, whether they are still good eggs for hatching when they reach the hatchery depends a lot on the poultryman. Eggs should be sent to the hatchery 2 or 3 times a week so they are fresh when the hatcheryman receives them. See that they are clean, both by keeping the poultry house clean and the nests properly filled with nesting material and by cleaning the eggs with a stiff brush if they are dirty. Never wash eggs with water.

Hold eggs as short a time as possible. Temperature of the holding room should be kept between 40 and 55 degrees and a fairly high humidity maintained.

When taking the eggs to the buyer, see that they are handled carefully, avoiding rough shocks on the way. The hen may have laid a good hatching egg, but it is up to the poultryman to see that it gets to the hatchery in the same condition.

IBCA Sets Dates For 1950 Meeting

The International Baby Chick Assn. will hold its 1950 convention in Minneapolis, Minn., July 18-19-20 and 21. The decision to move the poultry industry's big trade show to the northern city came after a poll showed the membership fairly evenly divided between that city and St. Louis. Officers interpreted results of the poll as an expression in favor of a change of scenery; 3 of the past 4 IBCA Conventions have been held in St. Louis.

The exhibits and educational sessions will be held at the Minneapolis Municipal Auditorium, which is within walking distance of all downtown hotels.

This will mark the first time in 21 years that the IBCA Convention has been held in the northern mill and resort center.

Slow-Growing Edibles Need Start Indoors

Whether to sow seeds of vegetables direct in the garden, or set out plants may puzzle beginning gardeners.

Most of them decide it by sowing direct varieties which are hardy, grow rapidly and mature early, while they set out plants of tender varieties, which mature slowly and could not be sown directly outdoors until danger of frost is over.

Tomatoes, peppers and eggplant are given an early start, under protection, over most of the country, so that their harvest may begin weeks earlier than would be possible with seed sown directly outdoors.

Cauliflower, Too

Cauliflower, which must mature before hot-weather, is also started in this way, as well as early cabbage, broccoli, and frequently kohlrabi. For late harvests, however, all these are sown in the garden.

For most other vegetables, little is gained by setting out plants, except in cases where it might be difficult to start seedlings. This may be true in localities of heavy soil and low rainfall, and in all sections during hot weather.

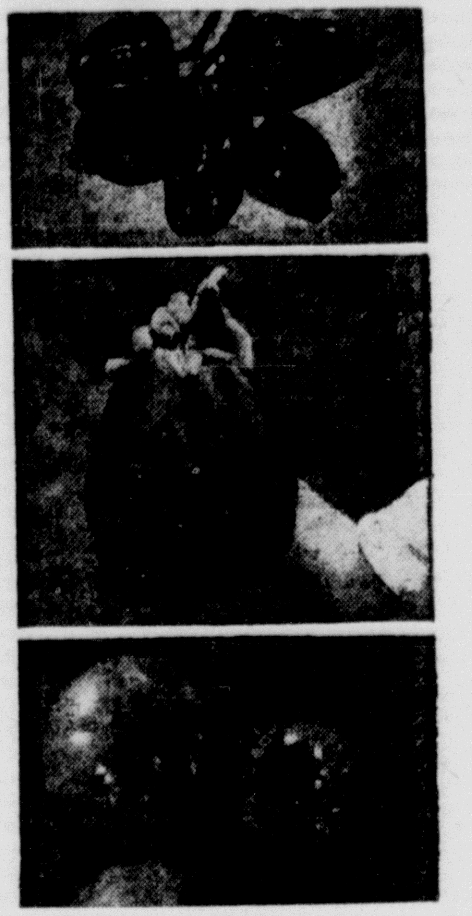
There are handicaps in transplanting, which should be considered. Whenever a plant is moved from one location to another, it suffers a shock, and growth stands still until it recovers, and adjusts itself to the new location. A certain percentage of loss may be expected, and unless transplanting conditions are favorable, and handling skilful, the gain in the harvest may be less than expected.

More Vigorous

Many market gardeners find that late tomatoes grown from seed sown in the garden, and never moved, will grow faster and more vigorously than plants which are started under protection, and set out in the garden.

While the transplants usually bear first, the direct seeded plants are often not many days behind.

But for early tomatoes, cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower, and for such slow maturing plants as pepper and eggplant, most amateurs will find it wise to start their plants under protection, and move them carefully to the garden when it is safe, in order that the harvest of garden-fresh food may begin a few weeks earlier.



PEPPERS (TOP), eggplant (center), and tomatoes (bottom) are slow growing tropical plants. Seeds should be started under protection and plants set in the garden when safe from frost.

Anyone Can Garden In Plain Window Box

Everyone can garden the window box way, whether he lives in a suburb or a tall apartment dwelling. And now is the time to be thinking of it, for boxes can be constructed during the winter weeks so they will be ready for the earliest start in the spring.

BORE ½" HOLES IN BOTTOM 6" APART FOR DRAINAGE
COVER HOLES WITH BROKEN POTTERY BEFORE FILLING.

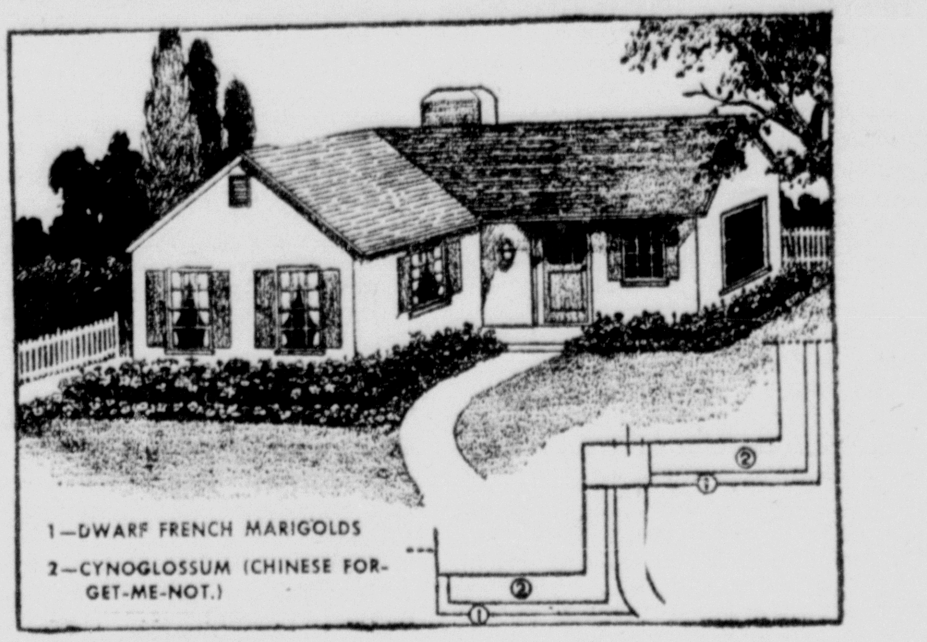
WORKING DRAWING of window bov for single window.

The illustration shows the dimensions for a single window. If made of cypress, it will last well, and cost little to build. Where large or multiple windows demand great length, the other dimensions may be larger in proportion, or boxes for each window made.

Remember that window boxes are a decoration for the house. They should harmonize with it, and improve its appearance. The boxes should usually be painted to match the dominant color of the house, or of its trim. The flowers will look best if they make a contrasting note, providing an accent of color.

Perhaps the finest of all window box flowers are petunias, because they blossom constantly throughout the summer, and provide so interesting a variety of color, form and habit.

Gay Flower Beds Replace Outmoded Landscape Idea



BY EMPRASIZING the horizontal line, flower borders make small houses appear larger.

"Foundation planting," long considered a first step in landscaping American homes, is being rapidly outmoded by the disappearance of the foundations which they were formerly planted to conceal.

When most homes stood upon a belt of brick or stone, out of harmony with the superstructure, the landscape architects advised that this belt be hidden by green plants, to "tie the house to the ground."

Since high building costs, and modern heating plants, have caused basements to be omitted from most new homes, the visible foundation line has disappeared, and the houses sit close to the surface with nothing to conceal.

In front of modern houses, shrubs and evergreens planted in the older fashion, quickly grow so tall as to screen the house from view, and shut off the outlook for the picture windows.

Landscape planting about a house should be a decoration, carefully planned to enhance the beauty of the building, completing an attractive picture as it is viewed from the street.

When tall trees dwarf the house, and over-large shrubs and evergreens hide it, and prevent the occupants from seeing out of the windows, the planting has not achieved its purpose.

Only low growing plants should be planted in front of low homes; and the brightly colored annuals of dwarf habit are becoming popular as the most suitable plants for this purpose. Their color gives a welcome touch, and they leave the view from windows unobstructed. Seed may be started early in seed-boxes indoors, and grown to a size suitable for transplanting by the time the soil can be prepared. There are many varieties which will grow quickly from seed sown directly in the border where the plants are to grow, and they will bloom until freezing weather comes in the fall. Besides providing a decoration for the house, many annuals are suitable for cutting, to be used in the house.

Dwarf single and double French marigolds, as shown in the illustration, come in tones of orange, yellow and maroon, with several two-tone blends of these colors. Cynoglossum, or Chinese forget-me-not, used as a ribbon planting in the background, blooms freely all summer, retaining its lovely blue coloring in hot weather.

Expert Advice for Gardeners

Because leaf lettuce is demanded by hotels and restaurants for fine salads, it is grown extensively in greenhouses all winter. Home gardeners may enjoy it all summer at small expense.

* * *

No greater saving can be made by the amateur gardener than by growing his own flower and vegetable plants from seed. Modern scientific methods of preventing disease, watering automatically, and transplanting seedlings, have made success easy for one who learns the simple methods to be followed.

* * *

In planning your vegetable garden, make the width between rows for root crops, leaf crops and bush peas and beans, just wide enough for your wheel hoe to cultivate it with one trip.

* * *

Look over the hoes and rakes occasionally and grease the blades if they are growing rusty.

* * *

Do not sow seeds indoors too early. In a greenhouse, 8 to 10 weeks before the plants can be set out in the garden is enough; in a cold frame, or box in the window, 4 to 6 weeks, will be early enough.

* * *

If your window does not give enough sunlight for a seed-box, you can supplement the daylight with artificial light. Suspended above the box a mazda lamp, high enough so the night temperature of the box is not above 60 degrees, and let the lamp burn all night. A 40-watt fluorescent lamp, suspended a foot above the box, will serve the same purpose.

Soil which is frozen should be thawed out gradually for seed box use. Quick drying tends to form hard lumps. After it is sifted, baking in a hot oven for half an hour will kill fungi and weed seeds.

News and Comment About Farm and Ranch

Texas

Scientists are trying to develop a sheep too tough for worms.

Bruce L. Warwick and his helpers at Texas Experiment Station report hopeful progress.

They found three purebred Rambouillet rams that were able to survive pasture infestations that killed rams of two other breeds. Some unimproved sheep also pulled through.

Last year when resistant ewes were mated to resistant bucks, 85 per cent of the lambs survived worms.

Lambs from the tough bucks and ewes that were not resistant didn't fare so well. None of them could take it.

It's too early to guess the final outcome. The quest may fail. It could succeed (1) by discovery of resistant parent stock of both sexes in present improved breeds, or (2) by improving both the resistance and the economic value of stock already spotted.

Classing Service Popular

Approximately 111,000 cotton producers in Texas are members of organized groups co-operating with the Cotton Branch of the PMA which handles the free cotton classing and marketing news services under the Smith-Doxey Act. There are 1,563 gins co-operating in the work with the 111,000 producers who are growing one of the 16 approved varieties on 9,686,250 acres. The program has grown steadily since it was started in 1938, and since 1946, 20 counties with 103 organized cotton producer groups have come into the program.

New Mexico

Charley Taylor, State Extension Service engineer, says a number of New Mexico farm families will be enabled to build or remodel their present homes under provisions of the 1949 Federal Housing Act.

Attention of the public toward the act has been centered upon its urban slum clearance and loans for housing. But the act also provides for some loans to farm families, and even outright grants of less than $500 in cases of extreme need. More important in the long run, Taylor believes, are funds for research in farm housing designed to reduce costs and allow farmers to obtain home plans and planning help through the New Mexico Agricultural Extension Service.

Ground Cover Better

Some soil blowing can be expected in a few areas in New Mexico this spring, although ground cover in most New Mexico farm areas is better than a year ago, according to Cyril Luker, regional director of the Soil Conservation Service.

Generally, the eastern plains portion of New Mexico has from good to excellent cover of crop residues and growing wheat, Luker reported.

FARM FACTS
WORTH KNOWING

Q. Are acorns poisonous to cattle?

A. The acorns are less poisonous than the leaves. If eaten in large quantities, both might cause symptoms of a digestive disorder, poor appetite and a gradual loss of weight. There is no effective treatment. Recognition of the cause and removal of animals from woodland pastures will usually result in complete recovery.

Q. When may turkeys be vaccinated for fowl pox?

A. The vaccination is easily given when the birds are removed from the brooder house when they are between six to ten weeks of age.

Q. Should hairy heifers be bred according to age or according to size?

A. Experiments at the Ralston Purina Co.'s farm show that body size should determine when heifers should be bred. Ralston Purina recommendations, by breeds, are as follows: Jerseys, 500 lbs.; Guernseys, 550 lbs.; Holsteins, 750 lbs.; Brown Swiss, 750 lbs., and Ayrshires, 650 lbs.

Oklahoma

The Chickasha Express reports that encouraging reports were brought out at a recent meeting of the directors of the Rush Creek Watershed Association. At this time 70 per cent of the 93,184 acres in the area are covered by conservation agreements and on over 50 per cent of the land the prescribed practices are in operation. The directors have set 90 per cent as the goal for 1950.

Adams resigned several months ago to accept an assignment in Nicaragua with the Department of Agriculture's office of foreign agricultural relations.

Wheat Yield Jumped

Fertility has declined so much on some supposedly good wheat belt soils that big increases in yield are obtained from use of fertilizer. At the Lloyd Long farm in Garfield County, Okla., wheat on untreated land made 10 bushels an acre. An application of 66 pounds of 4-12-4 an acre produced 15 bushels an acre, and the same amount of 16-20-0 jumped yield to 25 bushels. The test produced orders for 4 carloads of fertilizer for wheat in the county.

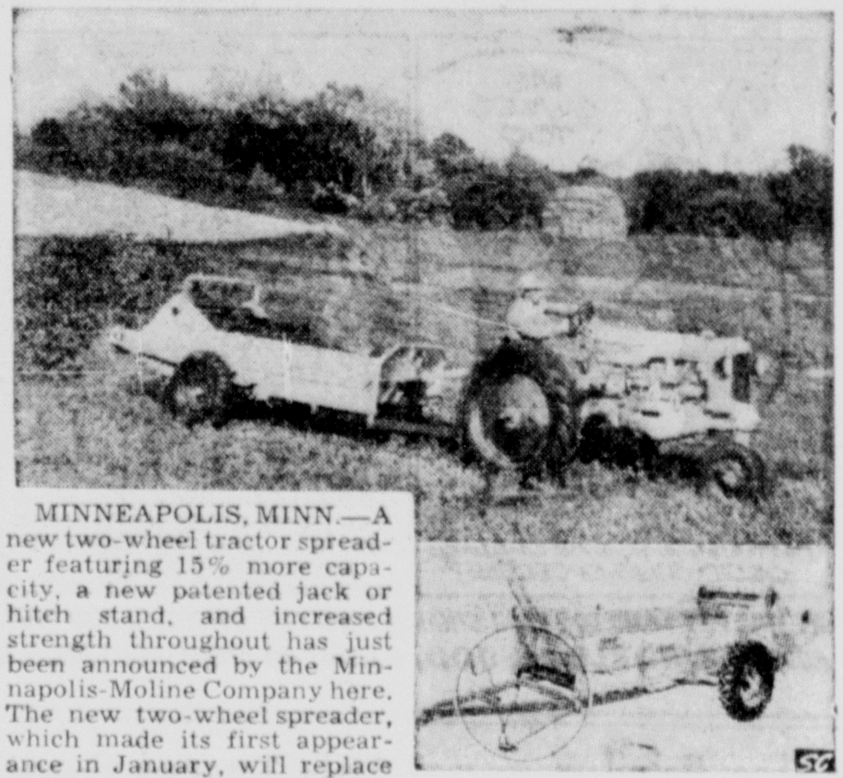
New Spreader Has Greater Capacity, Along With New Jack and Hitch Stand



MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—A new two-wheel tractor spreader featuring 15% more capacity, a new patented jack or hitch stand, and increased strength throughout has just been announced by the Minnapolis-Moline Company here. The new two-wheel spreader, which made its first appearance in January, will replace the former 4-wheel spreader.

While the new spreader retains many of the features of the former 4-wheel, several improvements have been made. Its capacity is rated at 70 to 75 bushels and a large feed ratchet regulates the feeding at approximately 3, 6, 9, 12 and 15 loads per acre.

A special patented jack and hitch stand is new. The jack, which is built into the spreader near the tractor hitch, offers easy and quick adjustment to the height of the tractor draw bar when hitching or unhitching, and serves as a stand when the spreader is not in use.

A new three lobe feed cam with extra large cam rollers is designed to furnish smoother feeding action. All beater and distributor shafts are made of heavy-duty material and run on precision roller bearings. The steel side extension shields for the upper beater are flanged to prevent wrapping of fertilizing material and a large diameter main beater gives improved shredding action.

Heavy-duty steel angles and large reinforcement gusset plates strengthen the sides and bottom which are made of treated wood to give greater length of life and acid resisting ability. For added safety, all chains and driving mechanisms are fully covered by streamlined, pressed steel shields. Disc-type wheels with 7.50x18 traction tread tires and a 2-inch rear axle with new heavy-duty roller bearing were designed to give added over-all strength to the new spreader.

This Tastes Good

One food product Americans have come to appreciate for its satisfying good taste, substantial food value, and wonderful economy is macaroni.

Usually made from wheat, macaroni is rich in protein. Nutritionists readily recommend it because it is wholesome, nutritious, and palatable. Its rich proteins serve to nourish the muscles, brain, nerves, and tendons.

One leading food specialist says that one tablespoon of baked macaroni with cheese is equal to four eggs, four glasses of milk, three chicken sandwiches, two ham sandwiches, two large country sausages, three slices of whole wheat bread, or six tablespoons of peas.

Reviewing the advantages of using macaroni products in your menus season after season, you'll be satisfied most of all with the unsurpassed appetite appeal of this quickly digested food.

For a wholesome dinner, prepare Salmon Spaghetti Special according to the following recipe:

SALMON SPAGHETTI SPECIAL

3 tablespoons enriched flour
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk
1 egg, beaten

Cook the spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender (about seven minutes). Drain and rinse. While spaghetti is cooking, melt the butter or margarine in the top of a double boiler. Stir in flour, salt, and pepper. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Add the egg and cook two minutes longer, stirring constantly. Fold in spaghetti, salmon, and peas. Pour into a greased one and one-half quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 15 minutes. Serve hot with creamy mustard sauce. Makes four servings.

Styles for Spring Are Announced By Fashion Dictators

Already there's a distinct rustle of spring in fashion circles. And the trends for the new season are, by now, fairly well set.

The word is that spring fashions are simpler and feature less exaggeration than you've seen in many a year. And that means the clothes are more wearable.

Newest styles tend to emphasize line, instead of detail. Those big important pockets and collars that were highlighted in winter fashions have been toned down in spring outfits.

When there's talk of spring, the subject just naturally turns to suits. Jackets are definitely shorter in both fitted and boxy styles. They have an easy, comfortable look about them. Sometimes jackets are in different color and texture than the skirts, which are usually narrow, by the way.

Short toppers are the big item, as far as coats are concerned. They are very short and very flared. And cape styles are making fashion news this year. Full-length capes will be seen, too, but not profusely.

In spring dresses, there's a neater, simpler design. Jacket-dress ensembles are very important. Full-skirted, starched, chiffon dresses are functional fashions for spring. They are featured in black and brown, checked material. Bands of black velvet give attractive style accent to the smart design.

Look for navy to be the predominant color in spring outfits. A new navy wool jersey dress features a jacket of navy and white. Navy binding outlines the jacket.

A fashionable example of the new styles in spring coats features a sailor collar on a bold navy-and-white-checked tweed. A white weskit is stylish accompaniment for a navy skirt.

For Neater Ankles

Here's a leg exercise that's easy even for an older woman. The reward will be trimmer and prettier legs and ankles.

Sit down, cross legs, and point toe of free foot down, then circle toes while stretching to side, upward and down. Reverse crossed legs and repeat.

★

Natural Lipline

A more natural lipline can be made by painting your lips with two separate lipsticks, each one of a different but harmonizing shade of red. The darker shade is used to outline and shape the lips only. The lighter tone is used to fill in the rest of the mouth.

★

No Reason to Fret

If you've gray hair at an early age, don't be dismayed. Play it up. You can be as pretty as the next blonde or brunet. Make colors work for you. Pastel blue, rose, pink, aqua, seafoam, and blue green, as well as white, are wonderfully becoming.

★

Time for Change

Tired of your fashionable "crew cut" and long for a change? Then vary your one-style hair-do with a pin-on piece. No one will ever be the wiser. Matches between your own hair and pin-on pieces are that good today. And there's no stigma attached to wearing false hair these days.

Try Make-Up Base

Have you ever worked terribly hard on a clothes and makeup color scheme for yourself and been disappointed with the results?

Perhaps you have been concentrating too much on keying colors to your eyes and hair and have forgotten how the tone of your skin can influence color selection.

Sometimes, by even so subtle a thing as changing the color of your foundation, and keying your lipstick and powder to that, you can remarkably influence the total picture of you.

The wide variety of greatly improved tinted make-up bases that are available now, make it possible for almost any woman to pep up or tone down her skin at will, bringing it chromatically up to the ideal for her type.

Don't forget, though, that a make-up base, whether tinted or colorless, should always be used under powder. It will make your powder stay on hours longer.

Papa and the Cats

It's a tough problem, this cat surplus, but sometimes it just has to be done. Who weakened?

By FRANK G. HARRIS

(In the New Orleans Times-Picayune Magazine Section)

ALL FARMS are plagued at some time or other with too many cats. Like the time when I was 10 and we had seven cats and eight kittens and papa made up his mind to get rid of them.

Papa stormed into the kitchen one summer morning yelling for Mama.

"Do you know how many cats I counted at the barn just now?" he asked. Without waiting for an answer, he shouted, "Fifteen! Are we running a cat farm around here?"

MAMA WENT right on cooking breakfast. Papa placed the milk pails on the floor and mumbled, "Cats and more cats. Why, a man can hardly get into the barn to milk."

"I thought you were in the barn milking," Mama said. "Now I find you were counting cats."

"This is no time to be funny," Papa said. "I'm going to dig a deep hole, then get my shotgun and fill that hole with cats."

"The Martins always drown their extra cats," I said.

"I don't care what the Martins do," Papa came back. "I'm not going to drown helpless cats."

MAMA WALKED over and picked up the milk pails and looked at Papa. "Looks like you gave most of the milk to the cats," she said. "I guess you wanted to give them a good meal before shooting them."

"Well," Papa replied, "they were hungry and I can't stand people who are unkind to dumb animals. Take those Martins down the road . . ." He stopped talking and looked at me. "You mean they drown their cats, son?" he asked.

"Just the kittens," I said. "Mr. Martin always drowns them in the creek and buries them back in the woods."

PAPA NODDED his head sadly. "So he goes off and drowns little kittens? You know, I never did like that man. Maybe I should shoot him instead of the cats."

Mama told him he should be ashamed to talk about shooting a man, even if he was kidding.

"Seriously, though," Papa said, "we'll have to do something about all those cats."

"Why not take 'em off somewhere and leave 'em?" I asked.

"I'm going to try that, even if they do say a cat always comes back home," Papa decided. "Come along, son."

PAPA WENT out the door with me behind him, and we went to the barn. We caught all the cats. Papa let me keep a black kitten and an old tom cat.

We loaded the cats into our car in crates and started out. Papa drove ten miles from the house, stopped and turned all the cats loose.

WHEN WE drove away all the cats had disappeared into the woods and Papa breathed a sigh of relief. He decided he would take a roundabout way home and stop by town and get some chicken feed. It was late afternoon before we got home, as we had two flat tires, and we were awfully hungry.

Mama fixed supper and after we finished eating we did the chores and it wasn't long before bedtime.

The next morning the cats were back in the barn. They were there to greet Papa when he went down to milk.

Papa didn't have much to say. He just loaded the cats back in the crates, with my help, and we took them about 20 miles away and dumped them out. That was on Tuesday. Thursday the cats were back.

"I give up," Papa said.

AFTER PAPA went into the field to work Mama told me to walk down the road to the Martins. She told me to tell Mr. Martin that she would pay him to get rid of the cats. Mr. Martin was glad to pick up extra money and he went home with me.

"I don't want you to mention this to my husband, Mr. Martin," Mama said. "Just do whatever you do to the cats and forget about it."

"Yes, m'am," Mr. Martin said. He took the two dollars Mama gave him, and I helped him catch the cats. Once again they were placed in the crates and our neighbor went home for his wagon and hauled them away.

THE MARTINS never did return the crates and Papa never mentioned them. When Papa went to milk that night he didn't even say anything about the cats not being in the barn. After supper Mama told him she'd like to have the two dollars he owed her.

Papa didn't say a word. He just dug into his pocket and handed her the two bills and I had enough sense not to laugh.

The fact is, I didn't feel like laughing. It wasn't that I felt sorry about the cats, either. I was proud of Papa for not wanting to kill them.

CATTLE WAR

son. The two sentences totalled some 55 years each.

On the stand Good swore that he killed the two men but facts did not bear this out. Later in life Good stated that he had so testified because he lived in fear of Ross and what he might do.

The two men were placed in the Huntsville prison from which they escaped a year later. Good was recaptured and returned to prison. He was later pardoned by Governor "Ma" Ferguson.

Ross went to Montana where he worked for a time on a large ranch. Finally his killing instinct got the better of him and he shot a ranch foreman to death. In 1929 Ross' body was found riddled with bullets near the western Montana ranch where he was employed.

Bloody Story Ended

Ranchers and cowpokes testified that Ross had killed himself. At any rate the death of Ross brought to a close a bloody story and the era of rustling and cattle wars in West Texas.

After the Ross-Good episode Seminole settled down to a normal life and made steady growth and progress. The old Gaines Hotel, the bullet-hole in the staircase wall, the tales and anecdotes of the oldtimers, all remain to testify to the fact that it was not always so serene.

The "wild west" has passed but it has not been forgotten. Only a quarter-century separates the modern, bustling Seminole from the hell-raking, gun-toting days. There is a funeral home directly across the street from the Gaines Hotel today but it is not likely that any sudden business will be created for them in the hostelry as it was back in 1923.

Burglars Take All

One of the biggest Chicago burglaries in recent years was reported by a smart women's apparel shop on Michigan Ave. John Borthwick, manager of Peck and Peck, said that burglars broke into the store and took $40,000 worth of clothing and a safe containing $2500 in cash. Borthwick said the stolen merchandise included 1000 dresses, suits and coats. The safe weighed 500 pounds and apparently was removed on rollers.

The Great Outdoors—

Annual Migration of Birds Still Unsolved

DESPITE his great knowledge, modern man has been unable to solve the mystery of the annual migration of wild birds. All that man knows is that the birds do move at certain seasons.

But how they know when to leave one location just ahead of winter and when to start back to it so that they will arrive with spring nobody can explain. How they know where to go on their migrations, and what lanes to travel, also are unknown. They definitely do not follow landmarks, scientists say, because some of them fly at heights out of sight of land.

Some birds even migrate at night and travel over expanses of water where landmarks are impossible.

Some scientists think birds may possess a mysterious magnetic sense in some part of their bodies, but they have no proof of this.

No animal of economic importance has been domesticated during the last 2,000 years.

* * *

Monster Bear—

One of the largest black bears ever killed in the Eastern United States or Canada was bagged this winter by 19-year-old Beverly Currie in New Brunswick, Canada. He killed it with a shotgun.

The youth saw the animal sleeping under an apple tree. It took three charges to kill the bear, which weighed 600 pounds.

Charles Church, of Cranston, R. I., was hunting small game, with a shotgun, when he was charged by a black bear. Church blazed away with the light shot loads, which slowed the bear down a bit but did not stop it. With lightning speed the hunter, a veteran gun handler, loaded his weapon with a shell filled with heavy buckshot and killed the attacking bear at a range of only 15 feet.

* * *

War On Cancer—

The lowly salamander is doing its bit in humanity's war against cancer. Scientists at Marquette University, in Milwaukee, Wis., are using the tiny, lizard-like creatures in a series of experiments to determine if normal tissues can be grown from cancerous ones.

Salamanders are used in the tests because of their ability to develop new parts of their bodies when old ones are lost.

If salamanders can grow new limbs from ones broken down by cancer, the scientists say, it will indicate there is hope that cancer cells can be transformed into normal tissue.

Leopards never change their spots. That is an old saying, and it is true. Leopard frogs do.

Notes On Nature—

The dodo, a defenseless, clumsy bird first discovered in the Sixteenth Century, was entirely exterminated by 1651. It was unable to cope with man's weapons and domesticated animals.

Dolphin, marine mammals, are closely related to the whale.

Three greatest commercial fishing grounds in the world are off the coasts of Europe, Northeastern North America, and Northeastern Asia, scientists say.

Giant California redwood trees are believed to be remnants of great forests which once covered many sections of the earth.

It is believed that the petrified forests of Arizona once had 10,000 feet of rock deposited above them, but this rock has eroded away.

Willows generally are favorite browse of moose.

A member of the cat family, the beast called the jaguarundi, which lives in the dense jungles along the Lower Rio Grande, is seldom seen by man. It resembles an otter or weasel.

Nearest relatives of owls in the bird family are whippoorwills, night hawks, and an unusual bird called the goatsucker.

Natural Oddities—

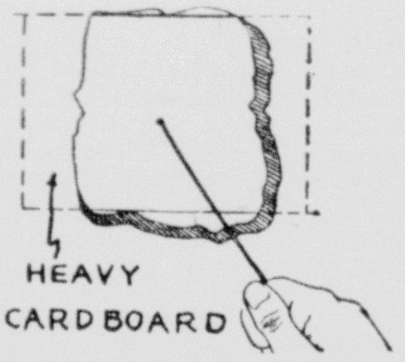
Endurance of the American bison was remarkable. It could run 40 miles without stopping.

Eyesight of the kingbird is so keen that it can spot a tiny insect that is at least 50 yards away.

HOW TO DO IT

PATCHING HOLE IN WALL

When an electrical outlet box or a switch has been removed from a plaster wall, patching the hole can be difficult if the lath was cut out.



American Builder magazine suggests this method of doing the job:

Cut a piece of stiff cardboard a little larger than the hole. Punch a tiny hole in the center of the cardboard and slip one end of a piece of string through the hole. Knot the other end of the string with a knot big enough not to slip through the hole too.

While holding the loose end of the string, push the cardboard through the hole in the wall. Hold the cardboard firmly in place by pulling the string taut. At the same time, fill the hole with plaster. When the plaster has hardened, cut off the string flush with the wall and smooth the spot with sandpaper.

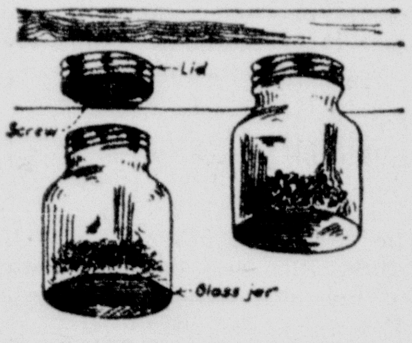
FOR NUTS, BOLTS, NAILS

Screws, bolts, nuts, nails and similar small items can be stored conveniently under a shelf. Here's how. With round-headed screws, fasten the lids of glass jars under the shelf. Then, instead of twisting the lids on the jars, twist the jars on the lids.



SPORTS

THE BOXING world waited for many years to hear Gene Tunney say who he thought was the greatest heavyweight boxer of alltime. Gene has spoken at last, and he names Jack Dempsey, not Brown Bomber Joe Louis.

The man who twice defeated Dempsey selects Jack as the all-time No. 1 because in addition to hitting fast and with deadly effect, the old Mauler could take advantage of an opening more readily than any other puglist.

And when Jack was hurt he was most dangerous. He possessed a fine ring instinct.

What does Gene think of Joe Louis? He believes the Brown Bomber's fights after he won the title from Jimmy Braddock were mostly with second, third, and fourth raters. Louis, he says, was great enough to ward off them all. Then Tunney asks: "What would have happened had a real contender faced him?" While Louis was blessed with a power-packed right hand, Dempsey had one too and was almost equally blessed with a great left hook, continued the one-time Marine.

Tunney apparently thought little of Jack Johnson, and about Jim Jefffries he was not enthusiastic, declaring Jim was too easily hit. Gene believes Jim Corbett might have defeated Louis and that Max Schmeling, while he had a good right hand, lacked the quality of greatness.

Braddock's inclusion among the heavies, continues Gene, was the sheerest bit of luck. Carnera, he opines, won his bouts because of the mediocrity of his successive opponents.

Concluding, the ex-Marine said: "I am of the belief that Dempsey would have caught Louis with a left hook early in the fight and that would have started him on the road from which he could never recover. Dempsey was a tiger as a finisher. As a hitter Louis was a killer, but I think Dempsey would have beaten him to the punch."

Coaches usually dig their star football players out of the hinterlands, but in the case of Cal Hubbard it was different. He figuratively threw himself into his coach's lap. This is how it happened.

Centenary Coach Bo McMillin was sitting in the lobby of a southern hotel when a giant of a man came through the door. He shook hands with McMillin, then said he was going to play football for Centenary. Last year the same Cal Hubbard was named to Grantland Rice's list of all-time football greats.
